18. How can we pray for each other this week?

Quotes to Ponder

If we are not to be ignorant of God's righteousness, if we are to turn away from any attempt to establish our own righteousness, we must come to the place where we submit ourselves to the righteousness of God—as it is seen in ... Jesus Christ.

Donald Grey Barnhouse

The first step to obtaining the righteousness of God is to renounce our own righteousness.

John Calvin

The law was never intended by God to be His final word. All along it was anticipating something greater to come. Now, that something greater has come: Christ. He is the "telos" (end or goal) of the law. If the law was a race, Christ would be the finish line

Douglas Moo

If we do not listen to the law, we will never see our need for the gospel. The goal and purpose of the law is Christ.... The law was given to show us the righteousness of God. It was given so that we can see the perfect righteousness of God and by comparison see ourselves, warts and all, and despair of our own righteousness. The law sends us rushing to the cross and running for grace.

R. C. Sproul

Because Paul believes the truth about God, and because he cares about those around him, he prays. Our prayer lives—whether we pray, and what we pray—tend to reveal what truly lies in our heads and hearts.

Timothy Keller

We violate the order of human thought and trespass the boundary between God's prerogative and man's when the truth of God's sovereign counsel constrains despair or abandonment of concern for the eternal interests of men.

John Murray
